

The poster features a textured, parchment-like background. At the top, there are large, expressive red ink splatters and drips. Three black birds, possibly ravens or crows, are illustrated in a stylized, high-contrast manner. One bird is on the left, looking towards the center with its beak open. Another is on the right, looking towards the center. A third is at the bottom right, looking towards the center. The overall aesthetic is dark and dramatic, fitting the theme of the play.
